

Teutonic Armies Lose Heavily in Struggle With Slavs and French

Russians in Drive in Galicia Have Captured Territory And Taken 38,643 Officers And Men, 93 Heavy And Light Guns, 28 Trench Mortars And Other Material—Repulse German Attack Northeast Of Kalusz—In Champagne French Drive Enemy From Positions Recaptured—Artillery Fighting In Belgium.

LONDON, July 16.—Again the Teutonic allies have suffered reverses—in the loss to the Russians of a part of the village of Lodzian, in the Lomnica river region of Galicia; in the repulse of an attack by the Russians northeast of Kalusz and in the Champagne region of France, where the French drove them from positions they had recaptured, inflicting heavy casualties on them.

From Riga on the Baltic Sea to the Roumanian frontier, the Russians and Austro-Germans along the entire front are engaged in battle but except in Galicia, where the Russians continue to develop their advantage or hold back thrusts of the Teutons, little has become known concerning the operations.

Men And Material.
Not alone have the Russians in their drive in Galicia made goodly gains of terrain, but their captures of men, guns and material have been enormous. From July 1 to July 13, according to a Russian official communication, 38,643 officers and men of the Teuton allies have been made prisoners by General Brusiloff's forces and 93 heavy and light guns, 28 trench mortars, 403 machine guns and 91 guns of other description have been taken.

The Germans in Champagne have again attempted with large bodies of men to recapture positions taken from them recently near Mont Haut and the Teton. They were entirely repulsed near the Teton, suffering heavy casualties. On Mont Haut during a night-long battle their efforts, according to the French war office, were momentarily successful in regaining nearly all the ground they had lost. Violent counter attacks launched by the French, however, succeeded in the return to General Petain's forces of all the German gains.

Raiding Enterprises.
Considerable fighting has taken place between the British and the Germans on the northern front in France and Belgium, but apparently the infantry attacks are still in the nature of raiding enterprises, although Berlin records the repulse of British attempts to recapture positions at Lombard-ryde in Belgium, and the infliction of heavy losses.

The probable recommencement of heavy fighting along the Austro-Italian front seems apparent from the latest official communication from Rome. Heavy bombardments have begun along the entire front, with the Italian forces doing effective work in destroying enemy positions at various points. In the Jamiana Valley, the Italians, following a heavy bombardment, delivered a successful raid, capturing 275 prisoners and machine guns and war material.

Comparative calm still prevails on the Macedonian front, although in the Vardar sector the Teutonic allies have endeavored to carry out raids with strong forces. These were all repulsed by the French fire.

British Raid.
LONDON, July 16.—The official report from British headquarters in France tonight reads:
"We carried out a successful raid early this morning east of Vermelles. Our line has been advanced slightly north of the main front. The British artillery has shown increased activity southwest of Lens and to the neighborhood of Arras."

Three German airplanes were brought down yesterday in the air fighting. Three of our machines are missing."

Drive Out Huns.
PETROGRAD, July 16.—The Russians yesterday captured sixteen officers and 400 Austro-Germans in the battle in Eastern Galicia, says the official statement issued today by the Russian war department. The Russians also took a number of machine guns. The Austro-Germans retreated to the village of Lodzian, in the Lomnica River region, and retained possession of the eastern end of the town. The Russians began an attack this morning. The Russians threw them back.

The communication says:
"Western front: On the lower Lorraine there have been fusillades and artillery bombardments. Northeast of Kalusz the Germans since morning have made energetic attempts to throw back our troops on the Lomnica."

"The Kiburn regiment, weak in numbers, but strong in courage, against which the principal German forces were directed, repulsed the attack. The commander of the brave regiment, Lieut. Colonel Simovik, was wounded. After this, led by the regimental commander's assistant, the gallant Captain Knapoff, these Kiburns advanced and threw back the enemy, inflicting losses upon him and capturing prisoners and machine guns."

Battle All Day.
"The battle on Landes-Reudslan-Yrasna front continued all day. After a severe engagement, the Austrians were driven out of the village of Lodzian and pressed hard to the Lomnica, but owing to the attacks by newly-arrived reserves from the direction of Roznizav, and in view of the great losses among our officers, our troops were compelled to retire a short distance, to the west of the village. The Austrians then moved themselves in the eastern end of the above-mentioned village (Lodzian)."

"Roumanian front: In the region of the River Otuz, one of our scouting parties on its arrival at the enemy's trenches was subjected to an attack."

IRRECONCILABLES AGITATION SOUTH AFRICA CONDEMNED

Would Inevitably Plunge The Country Into Bloodshed And Ruin.

(By Morning Bulletin Leased Wire)
CAPE TOWN, July 16, via Reuters' Ottawa Agency.—A mass meeting held yesterday in Port Elizabeth, Cape of Good Hope province, passed a resolution condemning the revolutionary and republican agitation of a small section of Boer irreconcilables, and declaring uncompromising opposition to this or any other attempt to sever South Africa from the British crown and empire. The meeting solemnly warned the agitators that persistence in such attempts would inevitably plunge South Africa into bloodshed and ruin.

DUTCH FEELING PINCH
THE HAGUE, July 16.—In an attack in the Weekly Amsterdamer, Professor J. A. Van Harnel, a widely known political writer, declares that absolute impoverishment and national exhaustion are in store for Holland if she is cut off from an overseas supply of foodstuffs and fertilizers and necessary raw materials by American interdiction. Professor Van Harnel urges that the Dutch government condemn immediately a special mission to America to explain the situation.

GEN. KORNLIFF WAS AUSTRIAN PRISONER WAR

Escaped By The Assistance Of A Czech Soldier.

FORFEITED HIS LIFE FOR SLAV BROTHER

Honored In Every Roll Call Czecho-Slovak Brigade.

(By Morning Bulletin Leased Wire)
NEW YORK, July 16.—It is not generally known that at one time during the present war Lieutenant-General L. G. Kornloff, whose victories in Galicia have so astonished the world, was an Austrian prisoner of war and that he escaped from Austrian captivity with the aid of a Czech soldier, who himself forfeited his life for the help extended to his distinguished Slav brother.

During the retreat of the Russian army from the Carpathians in the spring of 1915, General Kornloff, then commanding the rear guard, was captured by the Austrians and interned in Bohemia. In the summer of 1916, he managed to escape with the help of a Czech soldier, Frank Mrnak. For several weeks the two fugitives were making their way stealthily toward the Roumanian frontier, hiding by day and traveling by night. But one day in August they were surprised by gendarmes; the general got away and finally reached Russia, where he was promoted to the rank of general. Mrnak was hit and captured and later sentenced by the court martial in Pressburg to be shot.

It had been the Czech soldier's intention to enter as a volunteer into the ranks of the Czecho-Slovak brigade, which has by this time grown into two divisions and has distinguished itself in the present Russian offensive around Halicz. That his name and his heroic deed should not be forgotten, the commander of the brigade issued an order to have Mrnak's name inscribed on the roll of Company A of the first regiment of the Czecho-Slovak brigade of sharpshooters. The order reads: "Every roll call when Mrnak's name is called, the sergeant of the first squad shall answer: 'Shot by Hungarian court martial in Pressburg for saving General Kornloff.'"

NEW YORK PAYS HOMAGE 48TH HIGHLANDERS

Canadian Regiment Given Contentious Ovation In Heart Of American Metropolis.

(By Morning Bulletin Leased Wire)
NEW YORK, July 16.—Never before has New York paid such homage to the soldiers of any nation as was accorded the 48th Highlanders of Canada today. From the moment the stalwart band of Canadian fighting men swung into Broadway from the Battery en route to the city hall, until they entered the 71st armory at the end of their march, they were given a continuous ovation. To the skirling music of a bagpipe band and clothed in the most picturesque and impressive of uniforms, they marched so impressively that even staid and busy Wall street ceased business to cheer for the men whose colors were among the first from overseas to reach the battlefields of France.

At the city hall, Mayor Purroy Mitchell was waiting to accord a hearty welcome to the Canadian visitors, whose appearance he described as inspiring and whose mission he termed would be a great success.

Responding to the mayor's welcome, General White, in charge of British recruiting in this country, declared that the 48th Highlanders were Canadian regiments on United States soil "because at this moment General Pershing and his men are going forward on the European front to fight for the same cause that Canada has so valiantly and heroically fought for."

REJECTED SUITOR SHOOTER RETURNED SOLDIER AND BRIDE

Veteran Dead, And His Wife Of Week And Murderer Dying.

(By Morning Bulletin Leased Wire)
ANNAPOLIS, Ont., July 16.—Bruce M. Leitch, aged 25, a returned soldier of Montreal, is dead, his bride of a week is dying at a hotel in Sandpoint, and William Bennett, aged 25, of Montreal, is dying in Refractive hospital. Leitch who was on leave from a Toronto convalescent home, was spending his honeymoon with his bride at Sandpoint, near here. Bennett, who had been rejected by the bride, who was a Miss Gertrude Lillian Stranding, of Montreal, learned of their whereabouts, and arriving in Annapolis today, waylaid them on a lonely road and killed Leitch in cold blood, then shot Mrs. Leitch through the right lung, and face and himself through the head. The three were found lying in the roadway by a hotel keeper of Sandpoint at whose place Mr. and Mrs. Leitch had been staying.

MINERS WORKING HARD
CALGARY, Alta., July 16.—President Graham, of the miners' union, stated tonight that though there is a fearful shortage of men in the district, the men who are in the mines, outside of the lignite field, are working to capacity to keep up coal industrial needs.

On Saturday the miners in the railway district near Lethbridge, numbering about 1,500, turned out 9,000 tons in two shifts. The demand from the railways is great for steam coal.

GREECE NOW AT WAR WITH THE HUN POWERS

No Formal Declaration Made—Considers Herself Belligerent.

DECLARATION AT SALONIKI EXTANT

Army 250 Thousand Can Be Raised To 700 Thousand.

(By Morning Bulletin Leased Wire)
WASHINGTON, July 16.—Uncertainty as to Greece's status in the world war was cleared away today with the receipt of official information that the Greek government not only has severed relations with all four of the Central Powers but is actually in a state of war with them.

Information has reached the state department that the Greek ministers in Paris has notified the French government that Greece is capable of a full belligerent and will act accordingly. He said it was not necessary to issue a formal declaration of war as the government feels it is bound by the declarations previously issued at Saloniki by Premier Venizelos, who took with him to Athens all the responsibilities and commitments of the temporary Saloniki government.

As a semi-belligerent Greece is expected to lose no time in mobilizing her war resources and joining effectively in the common allied operations. The Venizelos army is placed at about 40,000 men and the remnants of the former regular army while not over 30,000 has at times mobilized to a total of 100,000. The Venizelos army is placed at about 40,000 men and the remnants of the former regular army while not over 30,000 has at times mobilized to a total of 100,000. The Venizelos army is placed at about 40,000 men and the remnants of the former regular army while not over 30,000 has at times mobilized to a total of 100,000.

Commissioner Jonnart, whom the allies entrusted with enforcing Constantinian's abdication, has reported that a Greek army of 250,000 men is raised to add to the 700,000 allied soldiers already in the Balkans.

It is understood that while some pro-German sentiment remains in Greece, a great majority of the people are happy that a final decision has at last been made and that the Greek nation's attempt to be neutral has ended. It is realized that Greece has a splendid opportunity to strengthen her international position which has suffered through her doubtful policy throughout the war.

"DOING HER LITTLE BIT AS PART OF THE BRITISH EMPIRE"

Lieut. General Turner Opens Exhibition Official War Photographs In London.

(By Morning Bulletin Leased Wire)
LONDON, July 16.—(Via Reuters' Ottawa Agency)—The second exhibition of Canadian official war photographs was opened today in the Grafton Galleries, New Bond street, by Lieutenant-General Sir R. E. Turner, commanding the Canadian forces in the British Isles. The photographs show the various modes of life of the Canadian soldiers at the front and among the most striking pictures are those of the taking of Vimy Ridge.

Lieut.-General Turner, in declaring the exhibition open, said that the average daily attendance at the first exhibition was greater than at the Royal Academy. Both collections of pictures, he said, would later be exhibited in the United States and all the proceeds would be devoted to the Canadian War Memorial Fund for providing a suitable monument to Canadian soldiers fallen in the war.

The greater part of the photographs were taken by the Canadian photographers who were connected with the taking of Vimy Ridge, and he concluded:
"Canada desires no thanks. We are doing our little bit as part of the British empire and hope long to be spared to be part and parcel of it."

ASSOCIATED PRESS GETS INJUNCTION

Against International New Service From Pirating News Belonging To A. P.

(By Morning Bulletin Leased Wire)
NEW YORK, July 16.—Although the United States circuit court of appeals some weeks since rendered an opinion granting on every point submitted the injunction sought by the Associated Press to restrain the International News Service from pirating news belonging to the former organization, the offering of the order has been postponed by the attempts of the defendant organization, through their counsel, to obtain a stay; first, from the circuit court of appeals; second, from the district court, and third, from a justice of the supreme court of the United States. All three requests have been refused, and the order has been entered by district Judge Augustus N. Hand of the United States district court of the southern district of New York, restraining the International News Service from the practices complained of.

DISCUSS PLAN OF PROVIDING HARVEST HELP

Conference Between Dominion Ministers, Railway Officials And Others.

GENERAL APPEAL FOR CO-OPERATION

Arrangements Outlined To Meet Apprehended Difficulties Of Situation.

(By Morning Bulletin Leased Wire)
OTTAWA, July 16.—The following statement was issued by Sir Robert Borden tonight:
"Owing to many representations to the government with respect to the probable shortage of labor for harvesting operations, the prime minister called a meeting of representatives of railway companies and of several important bodies for the purpose of arranging as far as possible for the provision and transportation of labor to those portions of the country where it is most needed for gathering the harvest. Accordingly a meeting was held in the office of the prime minister on Saturday, at which representatives attended on behalf of the Canadian Pacific Railway company, the Grand Trunk Railway company, the Canadian Northern Railway company, the Canadian Manufacturers' association, the Canadian Bankers' association and the Imperial Munitions board."

In the absence of Mr. Bennett, the director general, the National Service Board was represented by the secretary, Mr. Peterson. The minister of trade and commerce, the minister of railways and canals, the minister of labor, the minister of militia and defence, the minister of agriculture were also present. A very interesting discussion took place and arrangements were outlined which it is believed will effectively meet the apprehended difficulties as to securing sufficient labor for the harvest. A cordial spirit of co-operation was manifested by all and there is no doubt that every effort on the part of the transportation companies and the various associations represented will be made to assist in securing an adequate supply of labor for the purposes mentioned. It was suggested that the National Service Board issue a general appeal to the Canadian people to aid and co-operate for this purpose and such an appeal will be sent out through the press in the immediate future."

MEAFORD FIRST CANADIAN SHIP TO GET HUN SUB

Underwater Craft Sunk By Gun-fire Fifty Miles South-West Sicily.

(By Morning Bulletin Leased Wire)
TORONTO, July 16.—To the steamer Meaford, of the Parry Transportation Company, Limited, Toronto, belongs the honor to be the first Canadian freight vessel to sink a German submarine. The submarine, which was in the marine department of the imperial authorities conveying the circumstances under which Captain C. D. Meaford, of the Meaford, accomplished the feat, reached George E. Fair, of the company, today.

So far as is known, the Meaford is the only Canadian freighter engaged in the service of the Parry Transportation Company. The submarine, which was sunk a submarine, was in the marine department of the imperial authorities conveying the circumstances under which Captain C. D. Meaford, of the Meaford, accomplished the feat, reached George E. Fair, of the company, today.

"Am pleased to report that we sank a submarine by gunfire fifty miles southwest of Sicily in the Mediterranean. The submarine was the U-boat, which was sunk by the Meaford, of the Parry Transportation Company, Limited, Toronto, when the crew of the vessel sighted a submarine some distance off. The submarine gave chase, and while manœuvring for position the gunner on the freighter opened fire and sent the submarine down before she had time to retaliate. The vessel reached Bona the following day and discharged her cargo."

SHOWERS OF GAS SHELLS SILENCE HIDDEN BATTERY

Record Of An Early Bombardment By Canadians At Lens.

(By Canadian Overseas Correspondent)
CANADIAN ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Lens, July 16.—The western part of Lens, particularly that known as the Cite Dumoulin, was subjected to a gas attack early this morning. The first of the gas cylinders was projected into the enemy's positions about one o'clock and projectiles and drums loaded with deadly vapors were sprayed upon the Germans for almost two hours. The enemy attempted to cause a cessation of the attack by putting an artillery and gas shell barrage on that part of our front from which he supposed the gas was being circulated. In this he failed and the operations proceeded until the available drums had been discharged. Recently to offset operations of an enemy battery so securely protected in an underground position that a hit could not be scored, it was showered with gas shells. For fourteen hours thereafter the batteries were silent. It required that time for the atmosphere to absorb and render harmless the gas that had filled the sunken gun pit.

There have been numerous aerial fights on this part of the front during the past twenty-four hours. In one case two of our planes attacked five of the enemy's with decisive results. The losses recorded are one plane on each side.

REFORMATION JUBILEE WAS CELEBRATED

Demonstration Of Lutherans At Stony Plain Climax Of Annual Convention.

STONY PLAIN, July 16.—The largest gathering of Lutherans ever held in the province assembled here yesterday. As a fitting close to the Lutheran conference of laymen and pastors which had been in session during the past week, a great rally of Lutherans of the vicinity was held to commemorate the great day of religious freedom which dawned when Dr. Martin Luther opened the door of the Castle church at Wittenberg. Three hundred Lutherans from Wetaquin, Brightview, Peace Hills, Leduc, Nisku, Edmonton, Bruderheim, Beaver Hills, Spruce Grove, Blueberry and

In the afternoon the Rev. M. Pottemann, Lutheran, Sask. spoke on "The Bible, a precious inheritance awaiting the faithful." A hymn and recitation followed. Rev. C. W. Schwaninger, Wesleyan, preached on "The overflow meeting and emphasised that the three outstanding features of the overflow are: a deeper knowledge of liberty of conscience and repetition of church and state, ought to be duly appreciated and prized by every Protestant.

Convention Closes

The convention of Lutheran pastors and laymen closed Saturday afternoon. This gathering marks an epoch in the history of the Lutheran church in Alberta, commemorating the 400th anniversary of the Reformation. The Lutheran church is the church of the Reformation in which the principles are preserved and published, the principles that the Bible is the only true and infallible source and rule of faith:

that man is saved by faith without the deeds of the law, that Christ Jesus is the only mediator. These principles permeated the discussion lead by Rev. J. Herzer of Calgary, who pointed out that these fundamental truths have been stamped indelibly on the policy of the Lutheran church synods, ecclesiastical bodies have no authority to command what God has not permitted.

authority Christ. His word is law in the church. The Christian congregation is the court of last appeal in all matters not fixed by Scriptures.

Reports showed that the old gospel of Jesus Christ and Him crucified as believed and preached by the Lutheran church is not antiquated and out-of-date as some would have it, but is adapted to modern conditions, is still the power of God unto salvation. Nearly every parish reported substantial gains. One hundred stations are supplied by 80 active and progressive missionaries.

Missionary Activity

Encouraged by this success extension of missionary activity was contemplated on an enlarged scale. Six new workers are prepared to take up their duties in the near future.

SUFFERED TERRIBLY

For Four Days and Nights From

DIARRHOEA

Diarrhoea arises from many causes such as change of diet, change of water, change of climate, catching cold, the eating of unripe fruits or anything that will cause an excess of bile.

On the first sign of any looseness of the bowels it should not be neglected, but should be looked after immediately, for if not diarrhoea, dysentery or some other serious bowel complaint may ensue.

Miss Florence Harfield, 325 Lauder Ave., Toronto, Ont., writes: "I was troubled with a violent attack of diarrhoea. I suffered terribly with it for four days and nights, and finally I became so weak I did not think I could stand it. My sister advised me to try a bottle of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. I did so, and after I had taken three doses I felt a whole lot relieved. I kept on taking it, and by the time I had taken six doses, the diarrhoea had completely stopped. It did not leave me constipated. I think it a wonderful remedy, as it is so quick to act. I will recommend it to all my friends."

There are so many spurious "Strawberry" preparations sold that you should see that the name "Dr. Fowler's" is on every bottle you buy. Price 35c. Manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

IN MEMORIAM.

Edith Cavell, honored, revered,
Death's darkness hours bravely met,
Inspires and thrills our native hearts
Through death's dark night.
Hail to her sacred name!
Conquest of chivalry, conquest of heart,
Astonishing faithfulness, heaven's sacred art
Voiced in life's resignation,
Imprisoned, waited, trusted, died,
Loved humbly, serving righteousness,
Laid through death's night, her spirit
Lives to smite her vanquishers.

MAE MARTIN.

Dearie! Yes, I believe men all recognize a "wonder" complexion. Throw away your powder and rouge, and use a plain skin lotion. Then you will have a complexion of which you can feel justly proud, because it will be real and as beautiful as the fairest. It dissolves four ounces of purest skin cream from your drugist in one-half pint of water, and adds two drops of lemon juice to each ounce of water. This lotion cannot be detected when on, and its regular use banishes pimples, blotches, sunburn, blackheads, and all skin troubles. The skin is so delicate for spring months, as it protects the skin from the winds.

Do you know you can make your eyes sparkling and clear by this simple home treatment? Dissolve an ounce of crystals (not a drug store) in a pint of water. One or two drops in each eye every day will be all that is necessary to make them feel strong and look bright. If the lids are red or inflamed, try soaking dabs of absorbent cotton in the tonic, and laying them on each eye.

Junonia: The ugliness of skin which you write about is disgusting, and you will soon be wrinkled and old if you neglect it. But try this simple treatment, and I'm sure it will work wonders. Mix an ounce of alumina (from the drug store) with one-half pint of cold water, and add two teaspoonsful of glycerine. This cream will cause the skin to contract slowly, until the healthy firmness is restored. Keeps your complexion clear and free from blemishes. Also removes blackheads.

Eugenia: Your yellowish doublets means that your liver requires a regulator, and I would suggest a plain karene tonic. This will cleanse the blood and give tone and strength to the liver and kidneys, and then these organs are in a healthy condition you will be free from the bilious attacks, the obstinate headaches, and the

Famous Women

The Duchess of Kingston. In the annals of adventuresses, Elizabeth Chudleigh, Duchess of Kingston, deserves a prominent place. She was the daughter of Colonel Chudleigh, a Devonshire gentleman. When in her teens her father obtained for her a position of maid of honor to the Princess of Wales. She was talented and beautiful and was soon surrounded by a host of admirers. Among them was the Duke of Hamilton who offered her his hand in marriage and was accepted. Circumstances prevented their immediate marriage, however, and they agreed to consider themselves engaged while the duke set out on a tour of the continent. Shortly after this the Earl of Bristol died and Captain Harvey, son of the Earl of Bristol, soon after their wedding, which had remained obscure, both seemed to regret the step. The young woman succeeded in having the marriage record destroyed by tearing a leaf out of the register. Shortly after this the Earl of Bristol died and Captain Harvey succeeded to the title and honors. Now the young woman was eager to re-establish her claims and contrived by bribing the clerk to have the record restored. She now moved in the most aristocratic circles and here met the Duke of Kingston. An "affair" developed, and subsequently she was divorced by the Earl of Bristol and married the Duke of Kingston. When he died she went to France to live and here again was the heroine of many adventures. She died about 1780.

Behind the Footlights

What the Advance Man Says

LIVELY SHOW ON AT PANTAGES

Theodore Roosevelt in vigorous action and some telling scenes from his speech were applauded warmly at Pantages yesterday when they were shown on the screen in the movie leader. The 30-50 patriot with half his allegiance to his native land is a deplorable fact in Canada as well as in the United States. Other events of war interest and summer celebrations were also shown.

The regular program was opened by Bert Wheeler in an automobile pantomime. Of course it begins with an eccentric motor car, but develops into a hilarious juggling and a succession of delightful animal acts. The slide and sither and dart over the stage in obedience to obvious wires. The battle average of a jolly mule must be high.

Then came a dancing and singing act by Johnnie Small and the Small Sisters. We are getting a little fed up with the humor of a partial or pretty nearly complete change of costume on the stage. It has changed in a half a dozen acts that have been seen recently. However in this case the action was behind a curtain to the accompaniment of copious conversation. The final number with Irish costumes was very pretty and ended with agile and energetic dancing which made sympathetic souls in the audience mop their faces.

As a refresher almost welcome were the icy chills down the spine induced by hearing of stage choking shrieks and the muffled blows with which Bill Sikes battered the life out of Nancy in the playlet by Owen McGivenevy founded on "Oliver Twist." It was a remarkable production. The successful interpretation of such an atmosphere of sordid gloom into the froth and glitter of a vaudeville afternoon, and the marked differentiation and juxtaposition of five so unlike characters by Mr. McGivenevy was striking in itself, but the really marvelous speed with which the changes of make up were made so that the exit and entrance of one and another of the dramatic personae seem practically continuous was amazing.

The strain of believing what we see is so great that it would be a relief if some one could enter the thousand dollars but he is proven by another person in giving his act. There was a slight ditty sung by the first songs and stories presented by Al Wohlman in his efforts to entertain which did not improve their quality but he improved as he went on. He has a pleasing voice and a really humorous personality. The audience like him and showed it.

Showing at the Majesty theatre today.

The really peculiar thing about the "girl" number, "Oh Doctor," is that it has a plot which is adhered to with reasonable consistency from first to last.

There is a mysterious strip which fits swiftly from one person and place to another. There is also a hypothetical gripe which attacks the hero, Earl Mountain, while telling a tangled tale to his fiancée, Mary Gold, and is only released by the ministrations of a mysterious woman, a deli, an equally hypothetical doctor. He successfully handles both cases before the curtain falls.

The chorus was pretty. Their numerous changes of costume brought them on as lamplades, flower bloomer, and Russian cossacks, or as it Arabian nights hours in addition to several less eccentric striking costumes.

Their song about "The Pain in Your Tummy-Tum-Tum" was all there visually and vocally.

CUNNING AMUSES

CAPACITY HOUSE

Cunning, erstwhile professional jail breaker and handcuff king, but now one man entertainment, brought his "Empire" theatre last night and gave a capacity audience consisting largely of women and girls amused to the right proportions for the hot weather.

In the past Edmonton has seen mind readers and so-called necromancers in abundance, but few who were so candid as Cunning. He lays no claim to being able to divine the future, but rather the human mind with absolute accuracy at all times and under all conditions. Whether it is a good guesser or actually does possess a mysterious faculty by which he fathoms the human mind.

We have had Pauline, who was and is a good showman; Roy Bennett with more tricks up his sleeve than a magician; a palmy days had rabbits; and a series of digital dexterity and perplexing manipulations. Part two includes the dance of the mystic, the family, the dramatic, the cabinet manifestations and the projection of an aerial body through the air. The last and main portion of the program includes his crowning achievement of the evening, the scene that takes him into the audience for all his work.

The audience is asked to write on slips of paper placed in envelopes some act or acts they would like to see. The envelopes are sealed and Cunning blindfolded. He is asked by two girls on the stage, sing, dance and suchlike. The envelopes are sealed and Cunning blindfolded. He is asked by two girls on the stage, sing, dance and suchlike.

"FLORA BELLA" THE

QUEEN MUSICAL

COMEDY COMING

"Flora Bella," queen of this season's musical comedy offering will be at attraction at the Empire theatre the first half of next week.

John Cort sends the attraction here with a specially brilliant cast and long record run at the Casino theatre, New York. Charming music, brilliant lighting, book and love that's glow; clever principals, lively dancing and urban setting—what more could one ask? The story of "Flora Bella" concerns the young Princess Mania Demitoff, who leads a Quakerish existence in the country, and the dearest of her secret past as a famous dancing artist under the mononym of a girl. Then comes his discovery of a photograph of a princess as a dancer which leads to the revelation that it is "Flora Bella," a twin sister. The prince is fascinated by the picture and quietly steals away to meet his supposed sister in the city of the Golden Calf. The princess, who has been time is induced to return to the home of her former triumphs, just for one night, that she may help him.

The time manager in his position. Nicholas makes violent love to the dancer, who continues the character of Flora Bella and the dearest of her secret past as a famous dancing artist under the mononym of a girl. The prince is fascinated by the picture and quietly steals away to meet his supposed sister in the city of the Golden Calf. ARTCRAFT STAR AT

HER VERY BEST IN

"LITTLE AMERICAN"

For the last three years the public has been sufficed with war films of one type or another, some to entertain, others to instruct, and of a few designed to accomplish both—but the one that will be remembered longest as the most inspiring, effective and affecting of all is "The Little American," the latest Mary Pickford film now at the Majestic.

The picture is a simple, direct, and powerful production that stirs every emotion. The story is so realistic that one sits forward on the edge of his chair interested in every scene. It is only an animated picture. And it introduces a new Mary Pickford. Few of the little mannerisms that have helped to make her famous enter into this portrayal. She is a strong, young woman, dignified, sympathetic and completely natural. She acts throughout, but with the sure touch of Mary Pickford, artistic actress, as well as Mary Pickford, charming personality.

"The Little American" is likewise another triumph for its author and the director, Cecil B. DeMille. He is rapidly achieving a list of successes, many scenes of which equal and perhaps surpass some of the most remarkable bits of film ever screened. The film is unusually timely in its subject matter.

The supporting cast is unusual in type and ability. Jack Holt plays with a strength and sincerity that wins, while Raymond Hatton as the French lover is convincing and impressive.

EXTENSION
RESOLUTION
POSTPONEDTo Be Brought Down Today—
Both Sides Hold
Caucuses.

Ottawa, July 16.—The Conservatives held a caucus at noon today at which, it is stated, the question of extension only was discussed.

Liberals who voted in favor of conscription on the second reading stage also convened.

At the conclusion of the latter caucus, Fred Pardee, chief Liberal whip, stated that there was no announcement to be made today. Not one of the members who had voted against the bill were present.

The prime minister introduced the extension of resolution, the amendment to be made today. It was expected that several other members would speak during the day.

The week promises to be a momentous one. The third reading of the conscription bill will pass after a number of amendments have been defeated. The question of whether there is to be an election or not will be decided and removed from the realm of uncertainty before the week is over.

Resolution for London.
A resolution asking the Imperial government to amend the British North America Act so as to extend the life of the Dominion parliament for one year, until October 7, 1918, was formally moved by Sir Robert Borden shortly after the House met this afternoon.

Before the Premier had time to rise to speak to the motion, A. K. MacLean, of Halifax, suggested that it should stand over until the Military Service Bill is disposed of. He suggested that he was not speaking for any members of the Liberal side of the house, but he thought that the ultimate disposal of the Military Service Bill might affect the attitude of some members toward the resolution before the house. It would affect his own position, he added.

Hon. Frank Oliver rose and said he wished it to be understood that the proposal of the member for Halifax had no support from him.

Mr. Charles Murphy rose and said: "That is my position also."

"Make it unanimous," observed Geo. Kyte, of Richmond.

Sir Robert Borden, in reply to Mr. MacLean's request, said that it would have been better if the member for Halifax had given some notice of his intention before he had given notice of his intention to move the resolution today, as he had come to the house today prepared to go on with it.

The resolution had been on the order paper for a few months, Sir Robert said. He added that he was willing to consent to a postponement of consideration on the resolution until tomorrow. In the meantime, he would give the matter further attention.

Dr. Clark's Remarks.
Dr. Michael Clark expressed the hope that the decision of the members from Halifax would be prejudiced by the observations of the member from Edmonton (Hon. Frank Oliver).

Here Mr. Pugsley said he would be sorry to see the resolution allowed to stand over. It was an important matter, he said, and the sooner it was disposed of the better.

Sir Wilfrid said that while he was ready to go on with a discussion of the resolution, he was glad that the Prime Minister had acceded to the request of the member from Halifax.

This is a free parliament," said he, "and the member made a suggestion of which I am sure he had a right to expect that it will receive consideration."

The house then went into committee on the bill to amend the Railway Act, which will occupy the attention of the house for the remainder of the day's session. The postponement of the discussion of the resolution to extend the life of Parliament caused a considerable buzz of excitement in the corridors. It probably portends further negotiations looking to the creation of a union government.

her script for "The Combat," the screen feature which is being shown today and Wednesday, having started its run on Monday, she found it would be a number of scenes. This is not one of Miss Stewart's numerous accomplishments, but she had had little time to indulge in this particular line of sport. Before her entrance to the pictures she was also busy with her studies and voice culture. Nervousness was not something that she very often visited a nearly accidental and asked to be given a course in horsemanship riding. Then she journeyed to one of the best riding schools in the world. Miss Stewart was very apt, and before long she was able to master the trickiest horse in the stable on the track of an excellent horseman, and looks every bit as charming on her silken brown mare as she does on the stage. In the drawing room, John Robertson, who plays the role of the district attorney, Philip Lewis, and her partner, in this feature, gives his characterization that indomitable will power and determination which is found in the cast and the script of Philip Lewis.

Besides giving a remarkably true and sincere portrayal of the role, Mr. Robertson plays opposite Miss Stewart very well indeed. In number of the scenes they are seen as man and wife, and his bearing is not a single flaw. While the part is not exactly a heavy one, it demands a great dramatic strength and would have suffered at the hands of most players. Mr. Robertson, however, has instilled his whole heart and soul into the role and made it one that will live for years to come.

MONEY AND MARKETS
LISTLESS DAY AT WINNIPEG; OFFERINGS FEW

What Trading There Was Centered in Oats—October Closes Unchanged

Winnipeg, July 16.—The trading in the money and markets was dull and uninteresting. The principal business was done in oats, for which there is still a good demand. Feed quotations are a little higher. Buyers are in the market for all grades of wheat, but little is being offered.

Barley is quiet for the reason that offerings are practically nil, though there are plenty of waiting buyers at quoted prices. Minneapolis July wheat closed 1 1/2c higher and unchanged for September.

Winnipeg October wheat closed unchanged from Saturday. July oats closed 1/2c down; October closed 1/2c up and December 1/2c lower. Barley closed unchanged for July. July flax closed unchanged and October also closed unchanged from Saturday.

Winnipeg flax opened 1/2c higher for July and 1/2c higher for October. There were no opening quotations in Minneapolis wheat half an hour after the opening of the market.

TUESDAY, JULY 17, 1917.

The high cost of living commissioner explains that when he referred to the way certain packing companies have held up the public for prices for bacon his figures were gross profits, not the net profits. Gross profits is a particularly apt term in this connection. Profits got in that way from a people struggling for life and liberty are essentially, peculiarly, and cannibalistically gross.

Sir Joseph Flavelle's packing company is said by a Government investigator to have "cleaned up" five million dollars last year by regulating the bacon supply to suit themselves. Sir Joseph is head of the Imperial Munitions Board, one of our most vocal imperialists, and the possessor of a new title bestowed for his supposed services to the country. It would be interesting to know at this stage whether Sir Joseph is among those who demand that wealth be exempted while men are conscripted.

In the earlier stages of the war a good many of the more prominent newspaper supporters of the Government "assisted" recruiting by denouncing people as slackers for not enlisting in greater numbers, and now the provinces which have contributed more men than they were asked for are rewarded by the same newspapers by being branded as the abode of "Austro-Germans." Yet some people affect to consider it strange that the spirit of voluntary sacrifice did not thrive on this sort of treatment!

The Government propose to impose penalties upon any person or paper adjudged guilty of hampering the enforcement of the conscription bill. There would be no reasonable objection to such penalties if Canada had a Government which exercised its punitive powers for the ends of justice, and not for political purposes. But how these new powers would be employed by the present Government must be judged by the way it has exercised the powers it already possesses. In the past three years individuals have been jailed, and newspapers suppressed, who or which in other provinces said or published what was calculated to hamper the work of recruiting—and quite properly so. But in the province of Quebec the political allies of the Ministers have during the same period been allowed to carry on a violent, deliberate and persistent campaign to prevent recruiting effort, and of late to plot, promote and advertise rebellion, without interference or punishment. By the same application of the new penalties, persons or papers outside Quebec expressing opposition to conscription would be jailed and suspended, while Nationalist speakers and newspapers would be allowed to paralyze conscription in Quebec as they have for three years paralyzed voluntary enlistment in that province. Used as the present punitive powers of the Government have been used, the new penalties would not be employed to assist the uniform enforcement of conscription, but simply to suppress criticism in eight of the provinces of the Dominion, while in the province where conscription is most needed they would be held in abeyance, and conscription stalled as voluntary enlistment has been stalled.

If the war goes on long enough the Canadian at home who has got neither a title nor an automobile it may be in a lonely minority.

Something in the nature of an industrial war seems to have broken out in the Western States, where the people of many cities and towns have taken up arms and—with or without the assistance of the law officers—are running them to, or propose to run them to, is a question upon which no light has been thrown by the dispatches, but it is a question in which the Canadian public will take some legitimate interest. This country does not need any "won't works," and should not be made an asylum for contingents of them chased out of American communities in which they have made themselves a nuisance and a menace.

Reports issued by the Dominion census office destroy the notion that we may hope for a bumper crop of grain from the Canadian fields this year. They indicate that the probable returns will be a few points below the average for the past nine years. This, of course, is disappointing, but it does not forebode any calamitous condition. At the prevailing prices a half crop would bring in far more cash returns than a full crop in an ordinary year. So far as Canada is concerned the shortage will only tend to discount the abnormally large revenue we would otherwise get from the grain crop—not to diminish our average income from that source. The regret is that as the world is short of food we will not be able to contribute to its need as much as we would like to and had hoped to.

So far as the dispatches show, the political crisis in Berlin is mainly due to a dispute among party leaders as to what form of words would be most likely to ensure the Allies into making a compromise peace treaty. The leaders are quarreling, it appears, about what they shall tell the world Germany is fighting for. A quarrel among the enemy is, of course, interesting and welcome, whatever the cause, but the importance of this particular quarrel should not be over-estimated. Germany is fighting for exactly the same thing it started to fight for three years ago—world power. There may be rivalry among the German leaders as to which of them can cloak this unchanged purpose in the most plausible-looking lie, and no doubt there is among them a considerable variation in the talent for mendacity. But that any of them, or all of them together, can lie impressively enough on this particular subject to delude the world is not now probable. The retirement of Hollweg in no way alters the purpose of the Prussian drive against civilization. It only substitutes a new prevaricator for the old apologist. Whether he is more or less skillful remains to be seen. But that—however great his talent and industry in that respect—he can make the nations believe at this stage that the wolf has turned to a lamb is not very likely. The fumes have surely made their purpose clear, beyond the ability of anyone to fool them with twaddle about Berlin's pacific intentions.

A Petition

The London Times publishes the following poem from Lieut. R. E. Verne, who was killed in action a few days ago: All that a man might ask, thou hast given me, England.
Birthright and happy childhood's long heart-ease,
And love whose range is deep beyond all sounding;
And wider than all seas;
A heart to front the world and find God in it,
Eyes blind now, but not too blind to see
The lovely things behind the dross and darkness,
And lovelier things to be;
And friends whose loyalty time nor death shall weaken,
And countless hope, and laughter's golden store—
All that a man might ask thou hast given me, England.
Yet grant thou one thing more;
That now, when evensong goes, I may not think of thee,
Unwept in arms, a dreamer such May in thy ranks be deemed not all unworthy.
England, for thee to die.

POLITICS IN WAR.

It is universally admitted that Canada has need of all her men. Of those who are physically fit and can be spared from industrial employment, many thousands are needed in the firing line, and all those not needed there are wanted for industrial employment at home. James Arthurs, Conservative M.P. for Parry Sound, Ont., who went overseas as colonel of a battalion, when speaking in the House of Commons on the conscription bill on June 26th, is reported in Hansard as making the following statement:

"There are in England about 12,000 men who should be returned to Canada. Personally I do not believe that any man should be kept in England who is unfit to fight in France, or about to become unfit. Every man in class B now in England should be returned to Canada in order to provide the necessary labor required on our farms and in our factories. These men are perfectly fit in the ordinary sense of the word, but unfit for service in France simply through some minor defect in their eyesight, hearing, feet, or something of that kind, and which probably has been discovered after their enlistment."

The statement of Mr. Arthurs is startling, and is made with authority. It throws a lurid light on the military methods that prevail in Canada. At a time when our farms and factories both need men we have practically 13,000 men in England absolutely fit for industrial, but unfit for military service. We are keeping them in England at an average cost of not less than $2 per day per man. This totals up to $26,000 a day, $750,000 a month or nine millions a year, for which we get no return in military service and suffer at least an equal loss from their withdrawal from productive industry in Canada. Mr. Arthurs very properly advocates the return of these men to Canada. Their return would at least make possible the release for active military service of an equal number of men now needed in industrial employment here.

How far the condition mentioned by Mr. Arthurs has gone, the public do not know. It is known that men have already been returned to Canada because physically unfit for the firing line—but how many is not known. To a recent enquiry as to the number, the Government replied—untruthfully it is to be presumed—that they had no records on the subject.

Whether the men already returned are many or few, the fact that they were returned is evidence that they should not have been taken over. It is also evidence that for whatever time they were kept on the strength of the force either in England or Canada they were kept at the same corresponding cost and loss as the 13,000 men whom Mr. Arthurs says are still in England.

It is a serious matter that men should be taken from the farms and factories who cannot be used in the firing line. That such a thing has occurred and to such an enormous extent is proof of gross mismanagement of our military affairs. Just how this mismanagement has arisen is a matter that calls for investigation and information. The report of Dr. H. A. Bruce, dated September 20th, 1916, which has been the subject of considerable controversy, opens with this paragraph:

"Many hundreds of soldiers obviously medically unfit for service overseas have been sent from Canada to England."

He follows this general statement with many pages of facts and figures in its support.

The reply of the Director of Canadian Medical Services, Surgeon-General E. C. Jones, defending his administration from Dr. Bruce's criticisms, opens with the frank admission:

"There is no question of doubt that a large number of men have been sent over from Canada who must have been medically unfit when they were enlisted."

The report of the Baptie commission, which was selected and appointed to discredit the criticisms of Dr. Bruce, opens as follows:

"The board is agreed that large numbers of soldiers have come, and continue to come, from Canada who are unfit for service at the front." There is therefore no argument as to the substantial correctness of Mr. Arthurs' statement, nor that the condition which he objected to on June 26th, 1917, had been within the official knowledge of the Government ever since September 30th, 1916, a period of nine months. That at the end of nine months of official knowledge there were still 13,000 militarily unfit men in England is evidence that if conditions had not grown actually worse during that period of official knowledge, they had not grown substantially better. In other words, having full knowledge of the facts for nine months, the Government did nothing to remedy the evil, and the condition became so extreme that one of its most bitterly partisan supporters felt compelled to relieve himself of responsibility in the matter by disclosing the facts.

The full measure of the evil goes further than the mere money cost, and loss of industrial service. Dr. Bruce is authority for the statement that

"This condition of affairs has seriously handicapped the Canadian expeditionary force, both as regards organization and training in the United Kingdom and efficiency in the field."

The Baptie report, dated December 22nd, 1917, makes a finding as to the causes of the condition complained of, as follows:

"This it believes to have been due to inexperience on the part of the examining medical officers, partly to hurry, partly to carelessness, and lastly, in some instances, to the opinion of the examining medical officer being over-riden or ignored by commanding officers."

A certain military condition which seriously handicapped the organization and training of the Canadian forces in England and also their efficiency in the field, was officially stated to exist on September 30th, 1916, the reasons for its existence were officially stated on December 22nd, 1916, and it continued to exist, if possible, in an aggravated degree, on June 26th, 1917. Evidently the causes were too deep rooted to be eradicated, or else no effort was made to eradicate them.

How could it have happened that because of "inexperience on the part of examining medical officers" medically unfit men were accepted unless the examining medical officers were appointed because of their politics rather than their efficiency. Inefficient, because inexperienced, men must have been appointed, if the Baptie report is correct. Surely with so many to choose from, inexperienced medical men would not have been appointed except on political recommendations or for party services.

If this applies to the appointment of inexperienced medical men, how much more must it apply to those who passed medically unfit men because of "hurry" or "carelessness." The experienced medical man who would be guilty of hurry or carelessness in a case in which the lives of men and the honor and safety of the nation were concerned, could not have been appointed because of his known reliability. If the inexperienced medical examiner was appointed for reasons of politics, not of war, certainly the unreliable practitioner must have been appointed for like reasons.

But the Baptie finding only lays part of the blame on inexperienced and unreliable medical examiners. It further finds that the opinion of the examining medical officer was in some instances "over-riden or ignored by the commanding officers." How could the decision of a medical officer in a question of medical fitness be over-riden by a commanding officer? This could only be if the commanding officer held his position by political pull, instead of because of military efficiency or enthusiasm. Under well-understood military law and practice, the commanding officer has no authority to vary or ignore the findings of the medical officer. When he exercised such authority as the Baptie report finds he did, it proves first that he held his position by political pull; and second that he used it without regard to the good of the service.

Just two of the many specific instances cited by Dr. Bruce will be sufficient to show how fully the criticisms made are justified.

"60237, Private Clements, of the 34th Battalion. Age 30 years; 79 years when enlisted at Guelph, March 19th, 1915. Disability advanced, hardening of the arteries. Examined by Major Ratz, Guelph."
"Private R. Mick, 297454, enlisted with the 24th Battalion, in March 17, 1916, at Pembroke, Ontario. He is sixteen years of age, weighs 80 lbs., and had infantile paralysis which left him with undeveloped and weak muscles in the right hip and thigh. He left Canada three weeks after enlistment and has been in hospital in England most of the time since arriving, suffering from his legs." It is reported on good authority that of 12 certain battalions which went to England in 1916, the total strength on arrival was 8,332, out of which number 1,367, or 16.4 per cent., were found to be medically unfit. It will be noted that these battalions were over 5,000 men short of full strength before the unfitness were deducted and after the deduction they had men for only six battalions, but officers for 12.

There is no doubt that unfit men were systematically accepted in order to make up numbers that would seem to justify sending the battalion with its officers overseas. What happened in England was kept from the Canadian public by the censorship; or if the facts became known they were justified on the ground of "military necessity." Political necessity took unfit men and surplus as well as unfit officers to England. Military necessity dictated that they should not be sent to France.

The evidence is conclusive that the Borden Government from August 4th, 1914, until the present date has been waging war by playing politics, not only in regard to the contracts for munitions, equipment, and supplies, but even in the enlistment of men, and in the appointment of those who as officers had charge in large measure of the lives of those men. The Government that did not hesitate to play politics with the blood and agony and sacrifice of the people under voluntary enlistment now demands of Parliament, without regard to the people, a mandate to transfer the service that has hitherto been voluntary, into service by compulsion. If, and when, given that authority will they be less or more likely to continue to use the occasion of the war for the personal or political prestige and financial advantage of themselves and their friends? Conscription is only right if it is fair. Who could expect conscription to be fair under the administration of men whose war record has been such as that of the Borden Government; judged by the findings of their supporters in Parliament and the commissions appointed by themselves?

The New Zealand Way
From the Boston Transcript:
The New Zealand Government has a tough and ready way of reducing the high cost of living. It goes into the business in competition with the dealer.

The United States consul general at Auckland reports to the Department of Commerce the establishment of two Government meat shops in that city, at which the price of meat was at the start on an average from eight to ten cents a pound below that charged in the private shops. Naturally, after this proceeding, the prices in the private shops fell to those of the Government establishments. It is claimed that these enforced prices still left a margin of profit to the dealers. This may be true—in which case the governmental proceeding was merely equivalent to fixing a maximum profit by law. Some times we may envy the summary methods which seem to be possible in the Australasian lands, but it is perfectly plain that the American public would never submit to them.

The Crime Unpardonable
From the Boston Advertiser:
In an English town a few days ago a housewife was seen to throw a hunk of bread into a garbage pail. It had not spoiled. All that had happened to it was that it had been touched by a woman who was that a cat had touched it. Her plea did not avail in court and she was fined $10. Another thrifty matron in the same village had to pay $5 for the destruction of a pound of good bread, after she had explained that it was all the cook's fault; the cook had thrown the bread into the discard notwithstanding that the mistress's orders had been to burn it. These are samples of the difficulty which British authority is encountering in its efforts to enforce absolute imperative thrift in the face of a crisis which makes the least waste of food an almost unpardonable social crime. The profligate habits of a lifetime are hard to change in the twinkling of an eye.

You had better address a letter to the Admiralty, London. There would be no record available in Canada, so far as we know.

About Conscription.
To the Bulletin: Kindly answer the following questions through your question column:

1. When the conscription bill passes in Canada will it affect the naturalized British subjects who came to Canada from enemy countries?
2. If a man came to this country from an enemy country and died before he became a British subject, would his wife improve his domestic and become the British subject, would her boys be considered British subjects, who were not of age when their father died or when their mother became the British subject?
3. If a candidate in an election campaign takes the candidate of two constituencies and in case he would be successful in both, would he be able to represent two constituencies in the province and draw indemnity for the same?
4. Is the conscription to be continued in United States after the war, i.e., compulsory military training?

INQUIRY.
1. Yes, unless they have special exemptions.
2. Yes.
3. Yes, in both cases.
4. We are unable to answer this. Probably it will be a matter for the States to decide after the war.

Current Comment

Which Was the Act of Respect
From Ottawa Journal (Cons.) July 6.

Hon. Frank Oliver alone sat in his seat in the Commons this morning when the rest stood and sang the National Anthem.

This is the second occasion upon which the member for Edmonton has remained in his seat when "God Save the King" has been sung in the House. On that occasion Mr. Oliver stated that he was always glad to rise and sing the National Anthem on proper occasions, but he did not feel that he should take part in the demonstration when he saw the National Anthem being exploited for political purposes.

Mr. Oliver could not be seen by The Journal this morning, but no doubt his attitude is still the same.

That he has the courage of his convictions is very evident. That there is no man more patriotic as he sees it, is certain. He has a son dead in France and another on active service.

GILLETTE'S LYE

Britain No Whitewasher
From the Syracuse Journal:
One mighty big credit mark is due the British Government in the matter of war blunders. She refuses to use whitewash. She probed the Gallipoli campaign, and the reputations of mighty men were shattered. She has done the same in her investigation of the futility Mesopotamian campaign, and the shocking discovery and condemnation reached to a former Viceroy of India and a former member of the British War Cabinet. Britain is a past master in the art of censoring news. She is also an admirable adept in the practice of refusing to conceal the blunders of men upon whom great and grave responsibility rests.

LEGAL INQUIRIES

Legal questions will be answered in the columns of The Bulletin, after being submitted to The Bulletin's own legal representatives. Write on one side of the paper only. Be brief. Send stamped envelope for reply.

The following supplementary answer to a legal inquiry as to the legal status of cats is submitted:
"We do not understand what you mean by your questions as to the legal status of the ordinary domestic cat and a prize or pedigree cat. A cat has no legal status. A cat is a domestic animal, whether or not such event happens or not, is deemed for the purpose of this part to have caused it wilfully."

Section 399 of the Criminal Code defines "wilfully" as follows: "Every one who causes any event by an act which he knew would probably cause it, being reckless whether such event happens or not, is deemed for the purpose of this part to have caused it wilfully."

A person who puts out poison for a cat must be taken to know the probable result of his action, and he might be said to be reckless whether the event happened or not. The fact that the wrong cat got the poison would make no difference in this respect.

Too Much Food
In Summer means clogged liver and sluggish brain; too little food means flabby muscles and starved nerves. The man on the job must keep his brain clear and his muscles responsive. The way to do this is to eat Shredded Wheat Biscuits, the food that contains everything in the whole wheat grain prepared in a digestible form, including the outer bran coat which is so useful in keeping the alimentary canal clean and healthy. Two or three of these crisp, little brown loaves of whole wheat with milk make a nourishing, strengthening meal. Ready-cooked and ready-to-serve.

Adventures of Uncle Wiggily

Uncle Wiggily and the Yellow Bird

Copyright, 1917, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

Uncle Wiggily Longears, the nice rabbit gentleman, with a twink in his pink nose, was hopping along through the woods one day back of his hollow stump bungalow, when he heard a voice crying:

"Oh, dear! Oh, dear! I can't lift it up! I can't lift it up!"

"My goodness! me, snakes alive, and chocolate mouse!" cried the bunny rabbit gentleman. "That sounds like some one in trouble! I suppose Johnnie or Billie Bushytail, the squirrel boys, or Sammie or Susie Littletail, my little rabbit friends, may one of them have dropped a pound of sugar which they can't pick it up again. I'll see if I can help them. Spilled sugar is very hard to pick up."

But, as it happened, there wasn't any spilled sugar. And, instead of seeing any of the rabbit of squirrel children, Uncle Wiggily saw a little bird, with bright yellow feathers, trying to lift a piece of bread from the ground. But the bread, though it was not as large as half a slice would be to one of you children, was to the yellow bird quite too large to lift and fly away with.

"And, oh! I do want it so much for my hungry little ones!" said the yellow bird. "Only I can't fly away with it."

"Allow me to help you," said Uncle Wiggily most kindly. And then, putting the chunk of bread inside his tall silk hat, the rabbit gentleman carried it to the yellow bird's nest and she fed her little ones.

"You are very kind, Uncle Wiggily," said the yellow bird, "and any time I can do you or any of your friends a favor I will."

"Pray do not mention it," spoke the bunny uncle different-like and undemonstrative.

It was not long after this that Uncle Wiggily, still keeping on through the woods, suddenly felt the rain beginning to fall.

"And, oh, dear me, and some rubber balls!" cried the bunny rabbit, "I haven't any umbrella. Well, I guess it won't hurt my rheumatism much."

So he hopped on, keeping away from the drops as best he could by going along under the trees, when, all at once, he heard a lot of voices saying:

"Oh, dear! Isn't it too bad?"

"Now our picnic is all spoiled!"

"What did it have to go and rain for now, I wonder, Oh, dear!"

"Take a look, out! Look, out, and see if there's a bit of sunshine anywhere," spoke a voice which Uncle Wiggily knew to be that of Jollie Longtail, the mouse girl.

"And I guess she was speaking to Lulu Wigglesworth, the duck girl," thought Uncle Wiggily. "Lulu wouldn't mind getting her feathers wet. But it is too bad it is raining. I wish the boys and girls want to have a picnic."

And this is just what they did want to have. A lot of them, from Sammie and Susie Littletail, the rabbits, to Nannie and Billie Wigglesworth, the ducks, had started out to eat their lunch in the woods.

"But just think, Uncle Wiggily!" bleated Nannie, "it had to go and rain and spoil everything! Do you see any?"

"Not a bit. Not even a smitch." "Oh, dear!" sighed Nannie. "Our picnic is spoiled by the rain. I don't see what good it is, anyhow."

"Oh, the rain is very good, even though you may not think so," said Uncle Wiggily, emptying on a little puddle that had fallen on top of his tall silk hat, as the drops fell on a porch roof. "Without the rain nothing would grow on the farm or in the garden. We need rain—wings as we call it."

"But not for picnics in the woods!" said Susie. "Oh! If we could only see a little sunshine it would not be so bad. Can't you make the sun shine, Uncle Wiggily?"

"I'm sorry, but I can't," said the bunny rabbit, twinkling his pink nose. "Still, perhaps, I might do—"

Just then Jollie Longtail, the mouse girl, cried:

"Oh, I see some sunshine! I see some sunshine!" and she pointed with her little paw up toward the sky. Surely enough, there did seem to be a streak of yellow sunshine, which came nearer and nearer. But it still rained.

Nearer and closer came the yellow sun, and then, instead of being sunshine, the animal boys and girls saw the wings of hundreds of yellow birds.

"We cannot make it stop raining," said a yellow bird, the one whom Uncle Wiggily had helped, but we can flutter our wings and make it look like sunshine, even if the wet drops do fall. And you children surely don't mind a little summer rain," chirped on the yellow bird.

"We don't," they all said, for we all have feathers as the Wigglesworth ducks do, and the water runs off our backs. But if any of you are afraid of the rain, we'll fly over your heads, like a yellow silk Chinese umbrella, and keep off as much of the rain as we can."

"Oh, you don't need to do that," said Susie. "We don't mind a little rain!"

"I should say not!" quacked Jollie Wigglesworth, the duck, "and you can walk under my wings as if they were a parasol, Susie."

"And we'll pretend the yellow birds are sunshine," said Jollie Longtail, the mouse girl. So the animal children did this, going to the picnic in the rain, with the yellow birds as sunshine overhead, and never was there a nicer time in this world, and everybody was happy.

So you see, rain doesn't always spoil everything, and if the overhoo don't hide inside the umbrella, when the snow shovel wants to wear them to the moving pictures I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the blackbirds.

CONGRATULATIONS, MR. PUNCH! England and, in fact, the entire English speaking world, will stop for a moment today in the arduous work of warfare to shake hands with Mr. Punch, who has been funnier for longer time than any other gentleman of his kind. Punch, the most famous humorous publication in the English language, was first issued on July 17, 1841. The founders of the paper seem to have been born lucky, or maybe Punch was, for the whole edition of 5,000 copies was sold out in the same day. They were so overjoyed that they immediately gave a reprint order for 5,000 additional copies and these were all taken up on the following day. A sale of 10,000 copies of the first number of a penny humorous periodical was no mean achievement in those days, and it wouldn't be considered a bad beginning nowadays by any means. Since the establishment Punch has had seven different covers, the first having been designed by A. S. Henning.

Today We Celebrate

CHARLES VII AND JEANNE D'ARC

This day is memorable in the history of France as that on which it may have been considered to have been saved from the invasions of a foreign foe, the enemy being today France's ally and helping to expel an enemy from French soil. The King of France had been driven almost into the last corner of his realm when, on the 17th of July 1429, Charles VII, relieved from his dangers, was crowned at Rheims, and all this through the wonderful work of a peasant girl, Jeanne d'Arc. While there is much mystery as to the origin of Jeanne, it is known that she was born at Domremy, a small village on the Meuse, presumably in the year 1412. From childhood she is supposed to have had visions. She grew up amid warfare which ravaged her home land and she became preoccupied with the troubles of the people. Then, it is said, the Archangel appeared before her and announced to her that she would be the savior of France. She communicated this to her uncle, who insisted upon taking her before the governor. The latter only ridiculed her assumptions of offering to drive France's enemies from her soil. Finally, however, tales concerning her spread through France and she was at length brought before the king, who had disguised himself and stood among his courtiers. She recognized him at once, however, and gradually belief in her powers became stronger. She was given an army and sent against the English. She defeated them repeatedly and as soon as she had driven them from Rheims, Charles proceeded to that town to be crowned. However, her increasing power made enemies for her at court and Charles, whom she had ignored her. Shortly afterward she was captured by the English after an engagement in which her forces were greatly outnumbered. She was taken to Rouen and tried and condemned as a witch. She was burned at the stake on May 30, 1431.

Has Holidays Now

Dear Uncle Tom—We are now having summer holidays, and have got a good time. I expect my cousin to come and spend the holidays with me. This is my fourth letter to the club. Wishing all the members lots of fun during the holidays.

HERBERT PARSONS, Ponoka, July 13.

Dear Uncle Tom—This is my second letter to the club, though I have read the letters for several months and found them very interesting. I am in grade eight at school, but do not intend to take the examinations as I have only been in the eighth grade for six months. I have been going to school ever since I was seven, and am twelve now. I like it very much.
